

Behavioral Health Family Advocacy Program

ABOUT

The Family Advocacy Program (FAP) in the Behavioral Health Branch with MCCS Marine & Family Programs is a multi-faceted, multi-disciplinary program designed to address child abuse and domestic violence within the Marine Corps community on Camp Smedley D. Butler through prevention, advocacy, intervention and treatment. The goal with FAP is to prevent family violence by identifying risk factors and the underlying cause of abuse and addressing the effects of violence on both adults and child victims. FAP services focus on providing prevention through education, assessment, intervention, and treatment of spouse and child abuse/neglect.
