Clear skies and warming temperatures mean one thing on Okinawa: beach season! We are fortunate to be surrounded by world-class beaches, reefs and dive locations that provide an abundance of fun-filled water activities. Before you hit your favorite pool or beach, make sure you are prepared. Remember these important

Marine life: Learn about the hazardous marine life you might encounter. Don't let a jellyfish ruin your day at the beach. One great resource to learn more about Okinawa's hazardous marine life is located at mccsokinawa.com/dive_sites.
No Alcohol: Alcohol and swimming are never a good idea, and mixing the two can be a deadly combination. Alcohol impairs judgment, balance and coordination. Always use proper swimming skills.
